VINEYARD

A central part of the Côte de Beaune is composed of a sector of land predestined for the production of great white wines of which Puligny-Montrachet is, without contest, one of the most glorious representations. The soils are clay and limestone, rich in pebbles, easy to drain and quick to warm up.

TASTING

Beautiful, golden colour with hints of silver. An open, elegant nose which offers lemony and white, floral notes (white flowers, acacia, bergamot, orange). Well-defined and rich on the palate, as is typical of Puligny. Elegant, mineral finish, with a long and steady persistence.
